Asbury Research provides professional and individual investors with a forward looking, strategic forecast of the US financial landscape that incorporates a comprehensive blend of technical and quantitative metrics, plus Asbury Research's own proprietary models, which collectively tend to be more intuitive and forward-looking than the typical Wall Street approach.

John Kosar, CMT, our Chief Market Strategist, has 40 years of experience and insight in analyzing and forecasting global financial markets.

Forward-Thinking, Data-Driven.

Our focus is on the US stock market, market sectors and industry groups, and individual stocks and ETFs, plus US interest rates and economically influential commodities like gold and crude oil. However, our scope is the world as we integrate our own database of global inter-market relationships to add depth, context and accuracy to our investment conclusions.

A Subscription to Asbury Research Includes:

- Our proprietary models (Correction Protection Model, Asbury 6) that indicate when to be invested and when to play defense.
- Our recommendations on where to be invested in terms of size (small, medium, or large cap stocks) and style (growth vs. value).
- Specific indexes, market sectors, industry groups, stocks, and ETFs to buy and sell.
